

LOCATION GUIDE

IDAHO EDITION

Camille Marie Photography

As a family, newborn, children, wedding, engagement, maternity, and high school senior photographer, I have explored SO much of our area for great session locations.

I want to show you just how beautiful and diverse our area is. Some of these locations can only be accessed with me as your photographer because they are on private land. I will state that when relevant!

Lastly... keep in mind that when I'm scouting locations, my goal is to be able to do an ENTIRE session there. You don't want to cart your kids around to 5 different spots to get a full session. I don't want your whole session to be you standing by the same tree. So, the goal here is to get as many different looks as possible in one spot.

HI THERE.

WHERE DO YOU WANT TO GO FOR YOUR SESSION?

Selecting a location for your session can be difficult! The Treasure Valley is full of amazing places all within an hour of Boise.

This guide can be a tool to help you decide what look you want, and narrow down your options. I am always here to guide you and help you come up with the perfect place for your photos.

These locations vary depending on the time of year. We get 4 glorious seasons, and some locations really shine in certain times of the year. Remember to take this into account when choosing your location.

A few of these locations are a bit far from me, so I do have an additional travel charge for those. It will be stated in the location info if there is. Please let me know if you're interested in one of these locations and I can get you a quote.

SWAN FALLS DAM

This is my new favorite spot in the last 2 years. I have a special cliff area I know and love. I don't recommend this spot for those with toddlers (or disobedient kids haha).

For older families and engagement sessions and seniors, and basically ANYTHING else, this place is so IDAHO and has the best sweeping views!

The sky out here is INSANE.

LAKE LOWELL

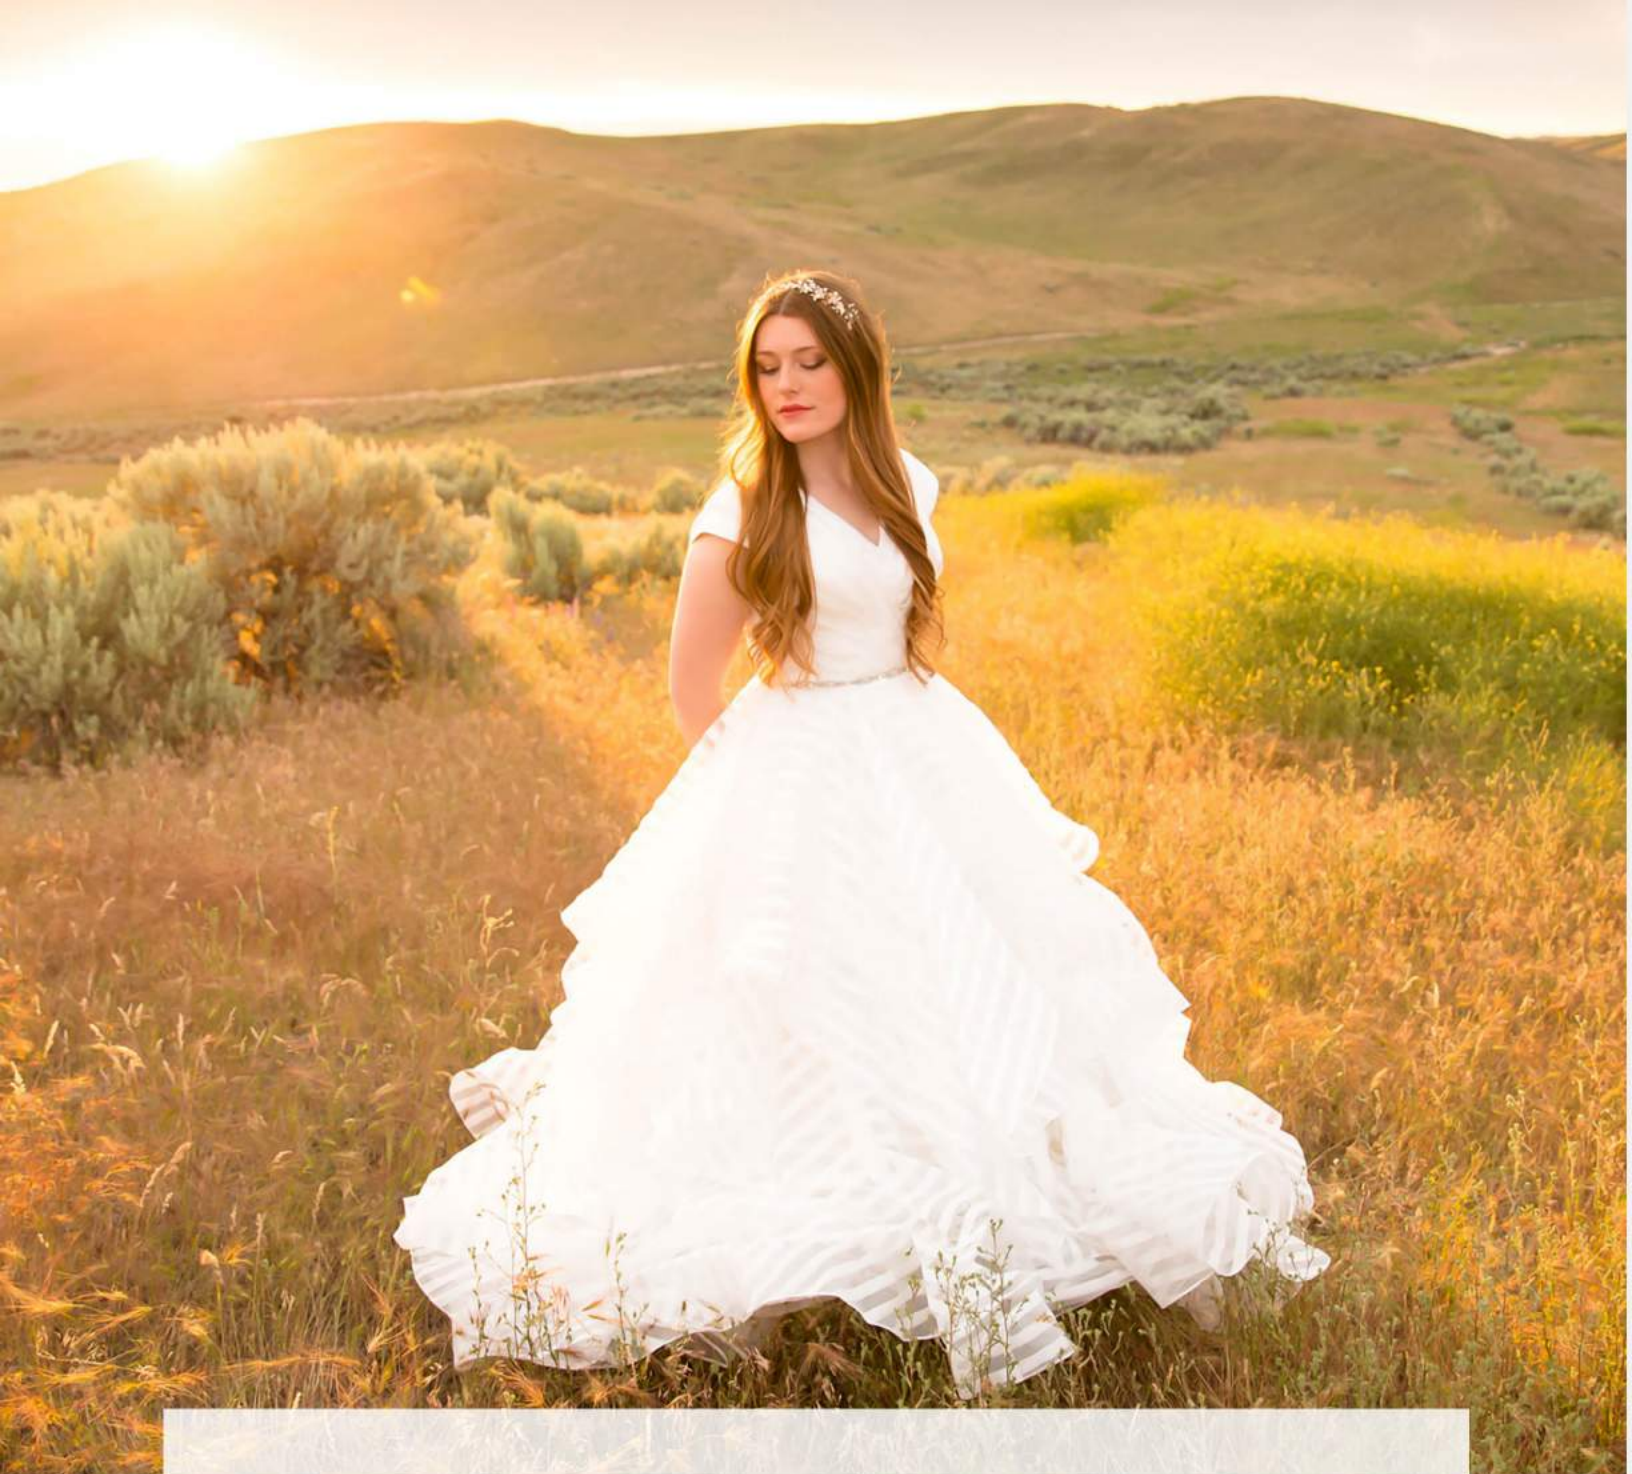

Lake Lowell is FULL of amazing spots to take pictures. I love a big open sky! It's such an Idaho thing... I've lived in a lot of places around the US and our sunsets here are truly amazing and unique. But this location is great because I can also get images in the really cool trees down by the water.

If you're an early riser Lake Lowell is amazing at sunrise too.

In the late summer, all of these beautiful little sunflowers start popping up, and they're so cute! I have a few spots that I love, and I know exactly when to time it for the light to be just absolutely perfect.

This is probably the location I go MOST often. It's just so versatile and works year round, for every kind of session.

EAGLE FOOTHILLS

This place is such a great discovery. It's on private property, but it's just the best! In June, there are usually a few flowers, which is nice.

But this place is really beautiful all year round! Big open skies, lots of rolling hills, and the light when it hits those hills is just insanely perfect! (plus, I haven't seen a single snake yet... yay!)

This one is quite far out in the Owyhee mountains, but totally worth the drive. (I do require an extra travel fee to book this location.)

When I have sessions out at jump creek, I'm usually, moaning and groaning to my husband about having to drive out there. But once I do, I'm always SO glad I went! It's just a very IDAHO place to photograph your family at and it's really cool to see too!

It's also a super fun day trip/hike (like a quarter-mile hike) down to a waterfall in a canyon leading to a small creek. But if you want stunning pictures here, you need to go at sunset.

It's just a very beautiful, unique place!

JUMP CREEK

SECRET GARDEN

I can NEVER get tired of this spot. This is on private property so we'll likely be the only ones there. But I have taken MANY images here!

If you are going for something LUSH and GREEN - this is the #1 place I recommend here in the valley. I used to live close to it, but even now, I drive 25 minutes to go here all the time.

It looks different in different seasons.

Winter doesn't disappoint...

Spring is poppin' with blossoms...

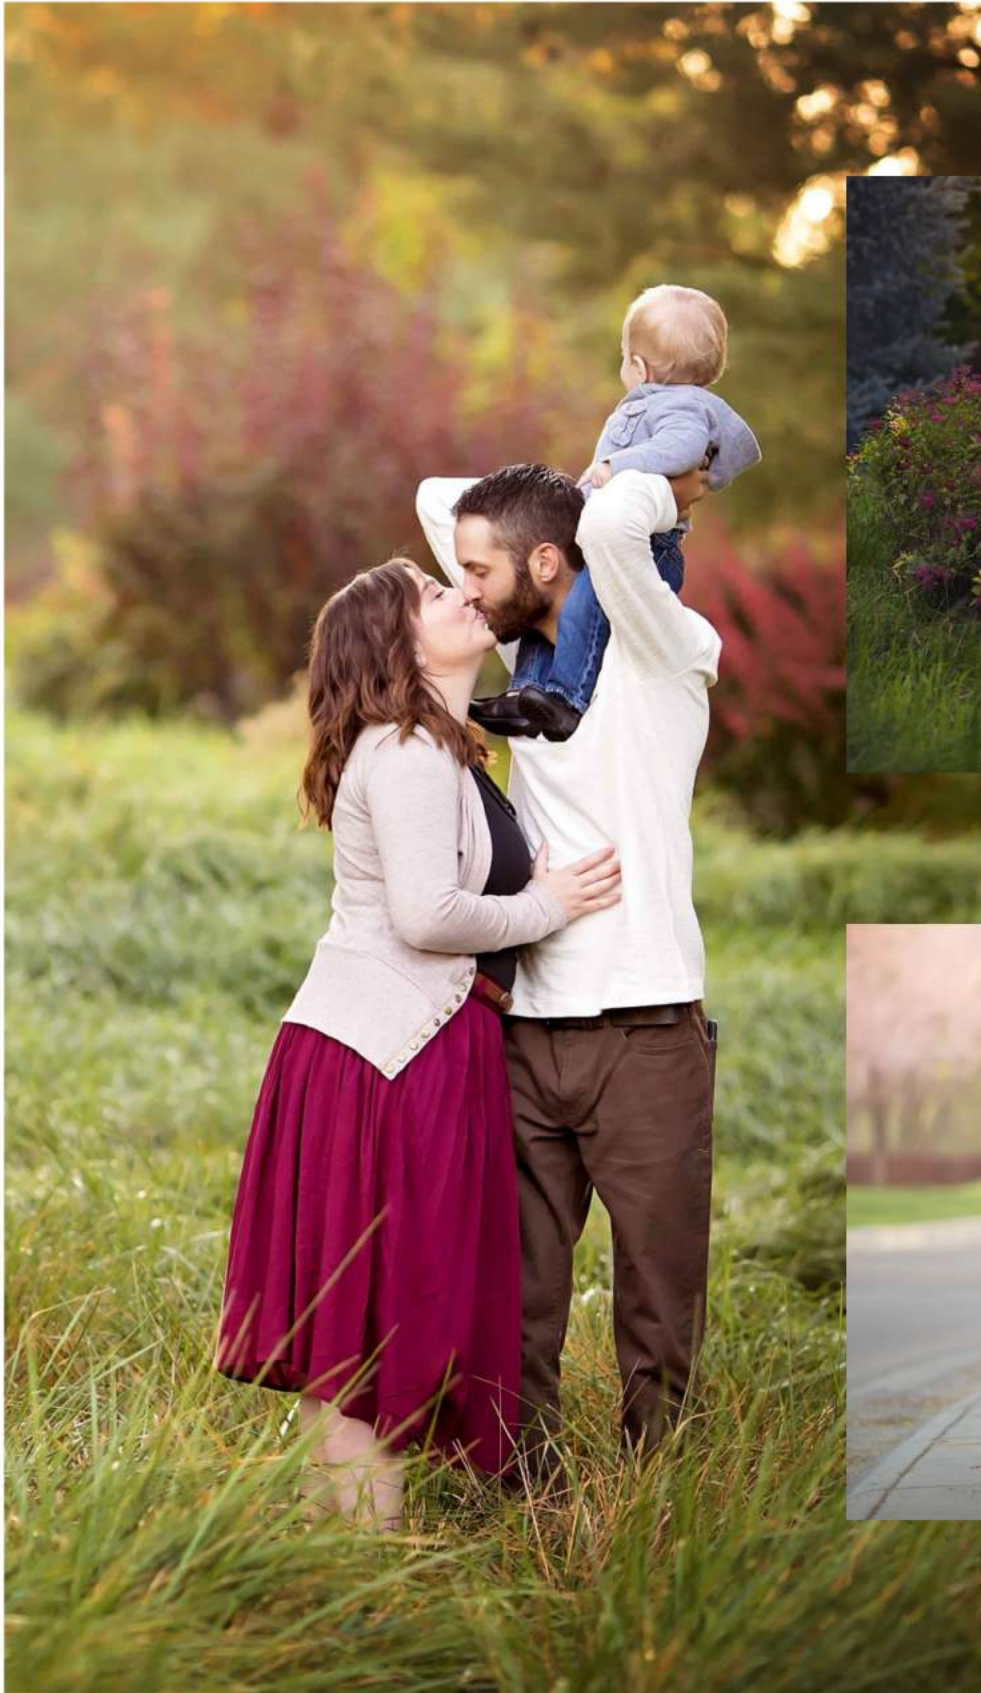

And it takes on deep rich greens as it transitions to summer...

And finally, it puts on a fall show...

Seriously... it even has a willow tree AND a cute little stone bridge.

Pick this spot and book a session... I love it so so much!

WILSON POND

Okay, so this is one of those spots that a lot of photographers use, but I don't think it gets enough credit! It's diverse, beautiful year-round, and really keeps kids entertained. I have got this location down to a science actually.

There is a short loop I take every client on, and I time it so we get to all my favorite spots at just the right lighting for that time of night.

Two things to remember at this spot... bug spray, and watch out for the goose poop. Other than that it's literally the BEST.

And in winter... this place STILL is gorgeous. The water is heated in some of the ponds for the migrating birds... but I love it because it creates a magical lift of fog on the water.

EAGLE GREENBELT

Don't get me wrong, it's a beautiful spot for pictures. I won't go here in the fall anymore though, not unless you really beg me. (ha!)

It's just swarming with photographers (and mosquitos, for reals!) But on a weekday, I have a few spots I just LOVE to use.

And as much as I complain about it, it's convenient, and really very beautiful, if you know what to look for! (and I know what to look for!)

Downtown Boise can be tons of fun. It's not a bit city, but it has plenty of little nooks to satisfy me! Down by the river is always a safe bet.

But there is enough unique architecture and bridges and interesting walls to keep me busy for a whole session!

I take a LOT of my seniors here, because we can combine the downtown look with the greenbelt for two totally different looks. I have had so much fun here the last couple of years!

DOWNTOWN BOISE

BOISE FOOTHILLS

The Boise foothills can be AMAZING.

I currently have two very favorite spots up here, and I can't draw a map to either of them haha! Just pull off the side of the road when I see it!

Neither of them are private property, but I have literally zero idea how I'd tell you how to get to these particular hills.

You'll just have to meet up and follow me.

I took my 3 girls up here for a session one spring, and the flowers that were there for my grandma's engagement pictures were gone, but the green hills were simply spectacular even without the flowers. I take a lot of my seniors and engagement couples up here and we just have a blast!

TRAVEL SESSIONS

I ALSO BOOK DESTINATION PORTRAITS AND WEDDINGS!

Not wanting a typical Idaho session? I book long distance sessions for weddings, but also for portraits. Take me on your vacation and I will capture the most amazing images for you. Let me know where you're heading and I can get you a quote.
